PUBLIC SHOULD HAVE MORE INFORMATION

Had you noticed how little is being said about the adoption of the classification of property for taxation at this time? A statement of a prominent Cincinnati politician before a group of voters in that city a few days ago brought a new question to our mind. Why cannot something concrete be given the public at this time on the vital subject of classification? Classification is not a plan for the benefit of city people alone but those in the rural districts as well.

It will be recalled previous to the adoption of the classification plan promises were made that real estate would be given a much smaller per cent of the tax load to carry and that intangible would be drawn into the light for taxation to make up the difference. With no definite statement from the committee having the classification amendment in charge there have been printed reports that real estate would not escape as much as first suggested.

It has been proposed to adopt the state income tax plan as an aid for real estate but there will be opposition to this and of course no politician would mention such a subject now with the election right at hand. The best plan is to keep the voters in ignorance until after election and then tell them what they will get whether they like it or not. A writer in the Washington C. H. Herald several days ago attacked the income tax proposal and best described it as a tax collected from those able to pay it that could collect it back from those that would not have to pay an income tax. In other words income tax is passed to the consumer who foots the bill in the end.

We are informed many prominent men that favored classification a year ago are skeptical of it at this time. The politicians have the whole tax system in their grasp and are not keeping the public informed. It is to be rolled into shape, pushed into the legislature, which will be compelled to pass it under political threats.

The citizens of Ohio should be aware of the tax situation that confronts them. The proposed tax law should provide for a referendum on each measure that is passed by the legislature. In this way the public can have some protection from the corrupt lobby of road machinery and material interests. There would be no bills rushed through as the last one cent gasoline tax that was called relief for township roads when in reality the largest part of it goes to the state.

Ohio has a right to demand an accounting now as to the classification plan to be adopted. After election time when the politicians in Columbus gather in executive session to give the final approval of the report, it will be too late for the home owner or farm owner to defend himself or herself. The only relief the farmer or home owner can expect is a reduction in the cost of state government. Dismissal of hundreds of useless state inspectors that are annoying every line of business will save hundreds of thousands. Put the government back in the hands of the people through members of council, township trustees and county commissioners and out of the hands of high-hat bureau and state commissions. Put responsibility in the hands of local elective officials where the average citizen can file a protest without employing a high-powered attorney to represent him as is now necessary before a state board.

INDICTMENT AGAINST DAUGHERTY

The grand jury in Fayette county has returned numerous indictments against Mal Daugherty in connection with the recent bank failure in that city. This is a matter of process of law and of course does not prove his guilt in court where he will have and is entitled to a fair hearing and trial.

But following this process of law in the name of the state and in behalf of society does not mean the stockholders and several thousand depositors will get full return for either their investment or deposits.

The question that concerns the public is the action of the Ohio State Banking department in permitting the re-organization of the banks in that city into the Ohio State Bank. It is charged the department intentionally or unintentionally permitted a consolidation of interests as they are revealed today the public has a right to believe the Ohio State Bank was insolvent the day the State Banking Department permitted it to open. Just how far politics has played in this banking problem cannot be estimated, yet there is no one that knew politics in the Seventh Congressional District but is convinced that Daugherty never overlooked putting politics into anything that would be of benefit to his organization.

When the State Bank Department selected the Ohio State Bank as depository for other insolvent banks, it is evident politics had much to do with it. Certainly O. C. Gray, the head of the department cannot say it was a wise business move. Why did he overlook two perfectly insolvent banks in Wilmington when he was seeking a depository for a Blanche bank that was in trouble? This is for Mr. Gray to answer.

The Herald has no interest in the Washington C. H. bank trouble other than from a public standpoint and the public has a right to have a voice in such matter through the press. The administration of the bank department as it relates to the public is no credit to Governor Cooper's business administration. We have supported the Governor and he has many accomplishments to his credit but the Herald never has apology to make for the wrong doing or misgiving of any public office, particularly that of a state banking department.

Governor Cooper evidently does not know the sentiment of the people in this section of the state. He evidently does not know what people are discussing in public affairs. If he did he would demand the resignation of Supt. Gray within the next twenty-four hours that confidence on the part of the depositors, not only in Fayette but in other counties, can be restored. The Governor can yet win many friends back before election day by demanding Gray's resignation. If he does not he must take what the public has in store for him at the ballot box on November 4th.

A Troubled World
The Deeds for Magicians
What Ails Us All
Power Unlimited?

There is serious revolution in Brazil, Pernambuco taken by the rebels, according to report.

In the Argentine rioting leaders are executed.

In China 75,000 "Reds" attack Kiangsi province.

Mild and peaceful south Germany is rocked by earthquakes. Raphael's beautiful Madonna in Munich, with the exquisite little cherubs looking upward, must have felt the quake, but fortunately was not injured.

It is a strange, agitated, restless, dissatisfied world.

Dean Inge of St. Paul's cathedral in London, most important clergyman, warns his fellows in the church that they must not "ignore the eugenists," namely those interested in producing better children.

Nature does not know anything, according to the dean. We have scientific knowledge, and if we don't use it, that is "counted to us for a sin."

The dean even takes an interest in the theory that a woman should be allowed to regulate the size of her family.

There is something in the statement that nature doesn't always function perfectly. Of the first two brothers born on earth by nature's process, Cain and Abel, one killed the other.

When you are ill it is well to know what is the matter. Business is ill, with an illness that affects millions of unemployed, as illness of the body affects billions of cells.

Mr. L. Greenfield, of Santa Barbara, diagnosing finds the following list of symptoms:

1. Over-speculation.
2. Fear.
3. Loss of confidence in our financial system.
4. Very low and cautious circulation of money.
5. Increase of unemployment by big business methods of "economy."
6. False statements of the country's condition.

What would you add to these symptoms? There is something the matter that nobody understands. This country fortunately will cure itself this time as it has cured itself often before.

Experiments in Cuba by Georges Claude, French scientist, may mean more to the world than all the wars, and most of the inventions, since Napoleon died.

Taking advantage of difference in temperature between surface and deep water in the gulf, Professor Claude has succeeded in supplying power to light 40 500-watt electric lamps.

This means actually utilizing the power of the sun. When that is finally accomplished the human race will possess power unlimited, and will do whatever it can imagine.

Mother Britannia begins to realize that her dominion sons are children no longer, and agrees, on demand of the Irish Free State, that the high court of any dominion shall render final decisions. Any dominion that chooses may abolish the right of its citizens to appeal to Britain's privy council against her own Supreme court.

It is said the British never repeal a law, but let it die of its own accord. The British rule that a man may beat his wife with a stick no bigger around than his thumb remained long after such beatings had lost public approval.

One scientist, dialling the idea of making money, said when announcing an important discovery: "Thank heaven, it cannot have any practical use." Probably he was mistaken.

Parasitis, a disease of the mind, that had always ended fatally, is now treated successfully by radio.

The "curing machine" is a small radio station. Its energy is localized between two plates. The patient sits between them, and the radio impulses pass through him, creating a high fever.

It is a pleasure to read in President Hoover's address to the American Legion:

"We must sustain a preparedness for defense that is impregnable, yet that contains no threat of aggression." There is no threat of aggression, in being prepared. The history of this country proves that it will not engage in the piracy of war unless forced to do so.

Wall Street reminds you of a baby with the colic. Try as you may, you can't soothe it, or stop its weeping. It reminds you, also, of the watch at the mad hatter's tea party, which would not keep time, although "the best butter" was put in its works.

Wall Street gentlemen tell each other, with icy smiles, that everything looks "very good, indeed." Then because some pirate sells their stocks short, they follow suit, and sell also. What are those best financial minds doing at present? Taking a vacation?

COLLEGE NOTES

The Bible Reading Contest is set for Sabbath night, November 2, in the Presbyterian church. Music will be furnished by the college glee club and quartet. From ten to twelve readers will participate in the contest. This year there will be two contests; one for young men and the other for young women. The prizes for the young men are furnished by Dr. C. M. Ritchie, and the prizes for the young women by Miss Margaret E. Wright.

The next football game is scheduled at Wilmington, Saturday afternoon of this week.

The college students and faculty were invited to hear Miss Jenkins at the high school auditorium Friday afternoon at one o'clock, on the subject of temperance.

The social committee of the students are preparing to give the annual Halloween affair in the Alford Memorial Gymnasium, Halloween night. It is the girls' time to give the social.

The 2000th anniversary of Publius Vergilius Maro was celebrated in the college chapel last Wednesday morning. Dr. Jurkat was in charge of the program. The program was as follows: a brief life of Vergil, Mr. Hutchison; Vergil's poems and their contents, Miss Elias; Vergil's Alma, Miss Martin; Vergil's Influence on the Literature of Modern Times, Miss Hartman; the reading of an English translation of the Fourth Eclogue, Miss Waddle; Tennyson's Tribute to Vergil, Miss Frasier. Dr. Jurkat closed with a plea for the study of Latin.

Professor Kuehmann has just received a large order of new chemicals for the laboratories. The interest in this department is unusually good. The play directed by Miss Francis was a success, and we are grateful to all who participated in it.

Among the new students who recently entered the college is Miss Reader of Jamestown, who has taken up the study of piano under Miss Berkley.

President McChesney was a delegate to the merger of the Xenia and Pittsburgh Theological Seminaries which took place at Pittsburgh last week. The Xenia Seminary is the oldest seminary on the western continent. Both seminaries belong to the United Presbyterian church and are now merged into one institution with an enlarged faculty and a revised curriculum, and upwards of a hundred students in attendance. The outlook for the future of the seminary is exceedingly bright.

In looking over the lists of students who have attended Cedarville College since its foundation it is interesting to note that they have come from the following states and foreign countries: Alabama, Tennessee, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, West Virginia, Michigan, New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Vermont, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Arkansas, Iowa, North Dakota, South Carolina, Montana, Prince Edwards Island, Ireland, Quebec, England, India and China.

Friends whose names are not for publication gave during the past week in one instance $1000 and in another $500 for the Maintenance and Expansion Fund of Cedarville College. The alumni of the college still continue to send in their checks and subscriptions to this fund. About $8000 must be raised yet between this and the first of May, 1937.

All the pictures for the Cedrus have been taken and the staff is busy preparing the annual for this coming year. There will be many features about it which will make it attractive and interesting. Persons who wish the annual for the coming year should give their orders at once to Wendell Boyer.

A tennis club has been organized with Branton Turner as the president and Marion Hostetter as the Secretary. The other members of the club so far are: Professor Davis, Walter Kilpatrick, Robert Wilson, Louis McLaughlin, Clyde Hutchison, William Waddle, Philip Campbell, and Waldemar Schmidt.

Rate Bureau Makes Waterworks Test

A representative of the Ohio Insurance Rate Inspection Bureau in Columbus, was in town yesterday making an investigation of our fire equipment and testing out the new municipal waterworks system for pressure, supply and other information necessary. Where new waterworks systems are installed the rating bureau usually grants liberal reductions in insurance rates. In Yellow Springs and Fairfield the rate on business property averaged on reduction about twenty-five per cent and thirty-three and one third per cent on residence property. However property not regarded a reasonable risk will not likely get much reduction. The owner is left to improve conditions and remove the hazard if at all possible.

The Epworth of the Methodist Church entertained about sixty of the college students and faculty, Tuesday evening at the church.

The scheme of the party was: "A Nut Party." The room was decorated with red and yellow leaves and orange and blue paper.

The games were in charge of Miss Carman Frazier. During the evening nut games were played: peanut hunt, peanut race, nut guessing games, etc. As we had a very competent aviator in our group several of the folks took airplane rides. There was, also, present a mind reader who could tell what number we had made up by feeling our foreheads.

Small pieces of paper with letters on them were given out. These, when put together, spelled names of nuts. When each had found his group, refreshments were served, consisting of: nut bread, nut salad, doughnuts, and coffee. Each group was asked to make a little rhyme about the evening and we had some very nice verses.

The music of the evening was furnished by the S. S. orchestra.

We wish to thank the ladies who helped with this party.
